Cultural operator(s)

Name Archeology of Photography Foundation

Short description The Archeology of Photography Foundation was started in 2008. It works for the public good in the fields of culture, art, education, and supporting cultural heritage through the archiving, preservation, publications, and promotion, domestically and internationally, of important Polish photographers' archives. As one of few institutions in Poland and the only non-governmental organisation devotes its work to photographic archives, for which in 2013 it was awarded the Minister of Culture and National Heritage's award for protection of cultural heritage. The APF staff are highly qualified in the fields of digitalisation, promotion, and archiving. Foundation works on various projects with culture managers, curators, historians. It also engages volunteers and interns.

Examples of international cooperation: FotoRejestr, an 18-monthlong project with Oslo's Teknisk Museum, which included the international session 'The Archive as Project', virtual exhibitions, and a website. Also: international seminar at Tate Modern, London (May 2013); the exhibition Zbigniew Dhubak Body Structures as part of the main programme of PhotoEspana, Madrid; exhibition of Zofia Chomętowska in collaboration with the National Museum of History and Culture in Minsk, Belarus.

Project

Field(s) Visual culture, heritage, photography, residences, education

Description We are open to participate as national partner of the project. We are not interested in acting as a main leader. We are interested in joining already existing project as well as creating the new one with partners and leader. We act both on field of historical and contemporary photography. We would be also interested in social projects that uses photography as a tool of communication and social change.
